Where Are We At Today?

It has been 19 years since we started and we are not close to running out of innovation ideas. The types of auctions that we have customized for auction companies are many. The customization's that we have made for auction companies are almost endless. There always seems to be a different way to do things in this industry and that is why we have developed the basic functionality for all our auction types which works fine with no customization's but enables each company to develop their own processes exactly how they want it to work. The processes that we have developed for companies have easily saved them 1000's of hours of manpower and we are not done yet. Our cataloging app is being rolled out as we speak which will save more hours yet. Always something to do in this industry and we are happy that we have the privilege of working in it. Keep your eyes open for other innovations down the road
